Former Wake Forest All-American Jay Sigel was never challenged

With thunder for his drum roll and gray overcast skies for his setting, 31-year-old Jay Sigel became the 17th Champion of the Porter Cup Amateur at NFCC.

The Berwyn, PA insurance executive, who had been runner-up here three times and last year finished third, made no doubt about it as he demolished the field by nine strokes, the largest in tournament history. For the record, he won with a 6-under-par 274 on a final round 69.

The impressive victory eased harsh memories of 1969, when he lost the Porter Cup to Gary Cowan after holding a 5-stroke lead going into the last round.

CHIP SHOT.. During his first Porter Cup in 1973, Dick Horne befriended "Mr. Porter Cup", Dick Harvey who encouraged a receptive Horne to develop his own southern tournament. With help from numerous Porter Cup officials, the Rice Planters Amateur was subsequently born and continues today in South Carolina as one of the top events on the summer amateur circuit.
