Scott Simpson Wins Porter Cup

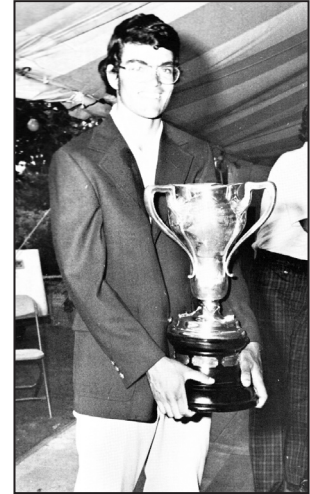

A large gallery watches Scott Simpson's winning birdie putt at the par-3, 18th hole at NFCC

Scott Simpson is one of the most quiet, unassuming young gentlemen you'll ever see on a golf course. But in a pressurized situation, you can almost hear him think.

Tied with Denny Hepler on the 18th tee of the final round, the reigning NCAA Champion from Southern California gunned a 2-iron shot at a tucked right pin to within 6 feet of the cup. Simpson then rammed home his birdie putt to win the suspense-filled tourney with a 2-under 278, the only man to break par.

On his way to the Porter Cup crown, Simpson found only one sand trap over the 72-hole tourney.

Simpson would add the U.S. Open trophy to his mantle in 1987
